

Experience

Vocational Rehabilitation Consultant / Counselor

Brice has extensive experience providing vocational rehabilitation services to workers in a wide variety of industries. Services have included vocational rehabilitation case management, identification of light-duty return to work options, preparation of employability assessments, and development of retraining programs. During his time as a Vocational Rehabilitation Consultant, Brice has prepared job analyses, conducted labor market surveys and transferable skills analyses, performed ergonomic assessments, and assisted with injury reduction programs.

- Conducted client interviews, and worked with medical and other professionals to obtain data regarding clients' medical issues, physical capacities, and work limitations.
- Developed analyses to identify return to work options for clients, and identify eligibility for further vocational services, including the feasibility of vocational rehabilitation.
- Worked with clients to establish retraining goals, and develop retraining programs to provide the workers with the skills and abilities to return to work.
- Worked with employer representatives and workers to develop detailed job analyses to summarize the tasks and physical demands of specific jobs.
- Led presentations to groups of workers regarding work safety and the vocational rehabilitation process in Washington.
